Growth rate of users do not have an effect on the stock value of Yelp - no correlation to stock market. good!
This eliminates the possibility that effects are due to yelp as a company doing good or bad.

should i examine review scores + users + etc and its relation to s and p500 during recession? or just move on to gdp and recession review scores and gdp

the growth rates plot shows that even during recession we don't see a dip in either. if there was constant account creation but a dip in reviews, that would mean the recession has an effect on num of reviews
